五、閱讀測驗：請仔細閱讀下列各篇短文，根據其內容，在各題中選出最恰當的答案。

A.

For more than a hundred years, Americans were taught that fires in a forest were always bad. Whenever there was a fire in the forest, the rangers immediately put it out. No fires were allowed to burn, even in places where many of the trees were dead or diseased. This did not help the forests, however. In fact, with so many dead and diseased trees, the forest fires in the western United States have been far worse in recent years.

The new chief of the U. S. Forest Service currently explained that there is a new and better way to save our forests. He said, "Small, limited fires are part of nature. That is the way that old, dead and diseased trees are cleared away to make room for new trees." Therefore, now the Forest Service has a new plan. They will start small fires in forests, but they will control the fires.
43. Forest fires help forests because they ________.
   (A) burn the new trees  (B) burn the dead and diseased trees
   (C) are worse in the western United States  (D) can control the fire

44. According to the passage, in the past Americans thought ________.
   (A) forest fires were disasters  (B) the forests were old and diseased
   (C) there were too few rangers putting out the forest fire  (D) more forest fires occurred in the western United States

45. According to the passage, which of the following statements is true?
   (A) The Forest Service now plans to stop all fires immediately.
   (B) The old and diseased trees in the western United States need to be saved.
   (C) The better way to save the forests is to clear away the new trees.
   (D) Starting controlled small fires is the new way to save the forests.

B.

An individual's personality is made up of a particular way that person thinks, feels, and behaves. Although each person is born with unique inherited characteristics, the culture in which that person lives has an influential impact on personality development. Behavioral scientists indicate that certain general personality traits are the result of what is called cultural conditioning. In other words, each culture tends to produce a certain range of characteristics. For instance, in traditional Arab societies, most women behave in a shy and withdrawn manner, but women in some Polynesian groups tend to be very outgoing. Such aspects of personality are learned from life experiences in the family. Therefore, much of a child's personality is shaped by the culturally "correct" way the parents behave.

46. Which of the following would be the best title for the passage?
   (A) Personality Development  (B) Culture and Personality
   (C) Characteristics of Culture  (D) The Behavioral Science

47. What is highly valued in traditional Arab societies as described in the passage?
(A) Quiet women  (B) Aggressive manner  (C) Family life  (D) Mental health

48. According to the passage, children's personality is formed from ____________.
   (A) Watching TV and videos  (B) Playing with other children
   (C) Learning the behavior of their parents'  (D) Childhood experience at school

49. Which of the following can be inferred from the passage?
   (A) Many Arab women wear veils.  (B) Many Polynesian women are reckless.
   (C) Early influences on personality cannot be measured.
   (D) Those who are raised in the same culture tend to develop similar characteristics.

50. Which of the following behaviors is most likely a result of cultural conditioning?
   (A) Seeking shelter from a storm  (B) Drinking when you are thirsty
   (C) Using a folk or chopsticks  (D) Going to sleep at night
